Mott MacDonald has hired Binnur Guleryuz as vice president, digital transformation to work with the North American and global infrastructure advisory teams.

Guleryuz will work with clients to provide digital technology solutions through innovation, enterprise integration, and delivering transformational change to operational, business, and social outcomes.

She has over 25 years' experience in business development, project execution, and programme management.

Previous roles that Guleryuz held were

- Global CIO of TAV Airports
- General Manager of TAV Technologies

Guleryuz has advised executive management, leading digital transformations, implementing complex information systems, process reengineering, and bringing new digital products to projects and programmes.

She will work closely with Michael Salvato, vice president, infrastructure advisory services. He joined MottMac in April 2018.
