The independent panel met last week for Judgment Day on IJGlobal ESG Awards 2023 to analyse a record number of submissions as the event gears up for its fourth iteration.

IJGlobal prides itself on the peer review nature of all the awards we host and this year the judging panel was of the highest calibre, giving an international focus to developments from across the international infrastructure and energy markets.

You can access details on the judging panel here...

With some judges joining over Teams from as far off as Australia, India, the US, and some in attendance at the London event who were in town from South Africa and Kazakhstan – the process was rigorous.

Over the course of the afternoon – a lot of the awards having been assessed individually before being discussed by the group – votes were placed on all awards (for companies and transactions) to be presented on 19 October in London.

Today we are publishing the shortlist for the company awards.
